

WorldKidLit

Social media assets: World Kid Lit Month 2026

If you would like to tell your community about World Kid Lit Month, here is a suggested blurb you could use in your newsletter or on social media. Thank you for helping to spread the word!

For more information, please contact Ruth at world.kid.lit@gmail.com and see WorldKidLit.org.

Celebrate diversity and a global outlook this World Kid Lit Month!

September is World Kid Lit Month, an annual celebration of international literature for children and young adults, including books from other countries, set in other countries, or translated from other languages. 2026 is the 10th anniversary of World Kid Lit Month: the perfect time to get involved!

The World Kid Lit website provides a number of resources to support schools, families and individuals who are interested in exploring global literature as a way to provide a more diverse and inclusive reading experience:

- Read the World booklists, reading prompts and ideas for an international reading challenge for children of all ages
- Fascinating interviews with authors, illustrators, translators and publishers from around the world
- Lists of children's and YA books in translation published annually since 2017
- Schools' International Reading Award – a competition to encourage and celebrate international and inclusive reading with prizes for the most internationally diverse reading project and the most creative presentations where participants share what they have read with others. The competition is open to primary and secondary schools and is open for entries from 1st September to 23rd October 2026

World Kid Lit CIC is a not-for-profit organisation that is dedicated to improving awareness of and access to diverse, inclusive, global literature for young people. Based in the UK, it works with literature and literacy advocates, librarians and educators across five continents to raise the profile of world literature for young people in the media, arts and education landscapes.

Need graphics for social media posts?

You'll find creative commons graphics in our public Google drive here and on our website here.

Please use these or make your own graphics to celebrate World Kid Lit Month.

worldkidlit.org

#WorldKidLitMonth

WorldKidLit

Suggested text for social media

You'll also find creative commons assets in our public Google drive here

#WorldKidLitMonth: explore children's and YA books from all over the world

Read the world through children's books in translation!

September is #WorldKidLitMonth

September is the month to explore children's and YA books from all over the world

Happy #WorldKidLitMonth!

Show us your shelves! Do you have any children's or YA books in translation? Where are they from? What language were they translated from? #WorldKidLitMonth

Read kid lit from beyond your borders. Global books for global outlooks

#WorldKidLitMonth

#WorldKidLitMonth

Travel the world with global children's books

September is #WorldKidLitMonth

Where will you travel by book?

September is #WorldKidLitMonth: the month to read children's literature from other countries and translated from other languages. What will you read this month?

worldkidlit.org

#WorldKidLitMonth